REUNION CLASSES

1882, 1883, 1884, 1885

1901, 1902, 1903, 1904

1920, 1921, 1922, 1923

"Never in my wildest dreams did I think a Class Reunion could be so much fun!" wrote somebody last year after hers.

You simply cannot afford to miss it. If you do, the ones who come back will at first wish you were here, then tell worlds of interesting things that you will never hear, and finally doubt your sanity for letting anything more calamitous than famine and pestilence keep you away.

From the moment when the first two reunioners fall on each other's necks on Friday, May 30, until the last one says goodbye to the wonderful Rivoli campus on June 2, Wesleyan will hardly be able to contain the "old girls" who will come back. It is always so. "It was more fun than our own graduation," declared "Shorty" Jordan of '27.

Come Friday, May 30. Then you will be sure of missing nothing. The formal program says 8:30 Friday evening is the time for the first function. Miss Wallace and the Dramatic Club are planning three one-act plays to be presented at the Conservatory—then you will have a chance to see the dear old "college on the hill."

Saturday is "Alumnae Day", so by all means be here by then. At the business meeting of the Alumnae Association in the morning Alumnae Clubs will give brief reports of what they have done during the year, officers and chairmen of committees will report. At this time will come the impressive ceremony of initiating the seniors into the Alumnae Association.

The seniors have charge of "Commencement Chapel", which follows the business meeting. Each reunion class has a chance then to give some skit reminiscent of their college days, to sing their class song or make a report of the number back for reunion. Last year this was one of the most delightful features of Commencement, costumes and songs and tales of "when we were at Wesleyan so many years ago." Macon members of reunion classes are invited to have lunch with their classmates in the college dining room Saturday.

Saturday afternoon belongs to the individual classes. Reunioners who live in Macon (and seven of the reunion class presidents do besides many members of the other reunion classes) are already making great plans for class gatherings and entertainments for that time.

The Musical Soiree and graduation exercises of the Conservatory follow Saturday evening.

Wesleyan is fortunate in securing Dr. J. Ernest Rattenbury of London, England to deliver the baccalaureate sermon Sunday morning. Dr. Rattenbury is coming to the United States as fraternal delegate of the British Methodist conference to the worldwide conference of Methodism to be held in Dallas, Texas, in May. He visited Georgia in 1928, when he delivered the Quillian lectures at Emory University on "The Legacy of the Wesleys." The Sacred Concert will be given Sunday evening at the Conservatory.

Mr. John M. Slaton of Atlanta, former governor of Georgia, has been chosen to deliver the literary address at the graduation exercises Monday morning, June 2.

Are you planning to be with us?

Shall We Have Another Alumnae College Week?

Wesleyan invited the alumnae to return to the college on April 7, 8, 9, and 10th, for a period of study, thereby promoting the first "Alumnae-College" Week in Georgia. In addition to the Belk Lectures by Dr. F. S. Hickman of Duke, the faculty members prepared lectures in their various fields, making a full schedule with four or five faculty lectures each day.

It was an experiment. We believed that the alumnae wanted to "continue their education"; but did they?

When the professor walked into the lecture room at nine o'clock the first morning, would there be an audience? There was. There were out-of-town alumnae, Macon alumnae, an alumnae husband or two, a distinguished gentleman guest.

Was "the audience" interested in the subject of the first lecture only, and would it leave at the completion of that? No! "The audience" was interested in general culture, and remained. Others dropped in. The last periods of the morning were more easily attended. "The audience" increased in size. Every lecture was a treat.

The second morning came. Could those who had attended the lectures the day before spare a second day? They could, and they brought others. News of the quality of the lectures spread. The head of one department came to hear the lecture of the head of another department. Students "dropped in" to hear about some field in which they had been unable to study. Officials enjoyed being academic. Club presidents discovered lectures and lecturers for future club programs.

The third morning dawned. There was no doubt about an audience. On all sides, people volunteered enthusiastically that they were coming. The lecture room was too small. The last lectures were held in the auditorium of the Gymnasium.

Wesleyan herself is enthusiastic about Alumnae-College Week. She planned to "stimulate" the alumnae, and behold, she herself was stimulated. Faculty and students were mentally and spiritually refreshed.

There was the joy of seeing Lillian (Roberts) Solomon, 1876, attending every lecture; there was Mattie (Bowman) Howard with her three alumnae daughters. There were alumnae mothers with daughters-in-college by their sides. And there were alumnae who planned to send their daughters next year. There was the Life Saving Demonstration of the Physical Education department which Dr. Hickman pronounced as the best he had ever seen. There were alumnae in the dormitory halls hob-nobbing with the students and with them in the attractive dining room.

By the end of the week one had a personal knowledge of the thoughts and personality of the faculty, an acquaintance with the students and buildings, an insight into the college today, and a big, glowing pride in Wesleyan!

The students and faculty want Alumnae-College Week again. Do the Alumnae?

Many suggestions have been offered—that the program and invitation be issued far in advance, that the fall of the year, the end-of-the-week would be better, etc., etc.

Won't you offer suggestions also?

THE GENERAL PLAN

From The Macon Telegraph

ALUMNAE RETURN HERE FOR STUDY

Former Wesleyan Students Gather Here
This Week

Part of an Experiment

The return of Wesleyan alumnae to the College for a period of study, as the feature of alumnae week, marks the enlistment of Wesleyan in the nation-wide experiment of an effort on the part of colleges to continue intellectual stimulation of students after their graduation.

The Belk lectures, a series of lectures given every two years, which are made possible by a foundation established by the late Dr. S. R. Belk, will serve as the nucleus of the program for the week. These will be delivered by Franklin S. Hickman of Duke University on the general theme of Christian Vocation. Other lectures, representing each department, are to be offered by members of the faculty.

The proposed "school" for alumnae is the result, partly, of a visit of Wilfred B. Shaw, of the University of Michigan to Wesleyan last year. Mr. Shaw was sent out to 40 colleges by the Carnegie corporation, which has undertaken the work of checking up on the present means of affording graduates continued intellectual guidance. Wesleyan, Mercer, and the University of Georgia were the institutions he visited in the state. The necessity for such a work was emphasized a year ago at a meeting of college presidents at Vassar.

At this meeting the responsibility of the colleges to its alumni was considered and plans were made for effecting a solution of the problem through a commission sponsored by the Carnegie foundation. The first college to undertake an alumni week such as Wesleyan is to have was Lafayette college in Pennsylvania.

The alumnae of Wesleyan have responded to the invitation to return to their Alma Mater for further study with enthusiasm.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

From The Macon Telegraph, April 11

WESLEYAN ALUMNAE WEEK

Wesleyan has initiated and is carrying out during this week two excellent ideas. She is bringing back her former students and graduates to share in the concentrated intellectual life of the college. She has also brought to the college and the city a distinguished scholar and writer, Professor Frank S. Hickman, of Duke University, who is giving a course of lectures to be published in book form under a provision made by the Belk foundation.

The idea of bringing back former students and graduates at commencement and convocation seasons is quite an old one. The idea of bringing them during the term period and arranging a special program for their enrichment, as well as their entertainment, is essentially new. It has in it such value and appeal that it ought to prove a decided success. It is much to the advantage of any institution to have the active aid of its alumni. No institution could be dumb to this advantage. But the way to get it and to get it heartily is for the college to see how it can best promote the cultural life of its graduates. If this is done the other will take care of itself.

The Wesleyan program for the week not only includes the unusually able and worthwhile lectures of Professor Hickman who is dealing with a problem of the highest Divine and human help that one may have in choosing a vocation, but it also represents in a concentrated way the best that the Wesleyan faculty itself can give its old and present students together. The idea behind the movement really opens the way by which one can be kept in constant touch with the intellectual life of his or her college and with the best thought of the time. It keeps the college family an unbroken fellowship. The outcome of it in various ways should be extraordinarily good.

The fact that these lectures are open to the public also makes a closer uniting bond between the life of the college and the cultural life of the city. This is a very good thing for both. It would require fine imagination to forecast the full outcome of what has been so splendidly started at Wesleyan this week.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED BY THE ALUMNAE

A Volunteer Committee Was Inspired to Offer The Following:

Since it is always a privilege to come back to Wesleyan and especially to come back with the object of listening and learning as we did in our college days,

Be it resolved: That the Wesleyan alumnae assembled for the first Alumnae-College Week in the history of Wesleyan, April 7-10, 1930, express their sincere gratitude:

1. To our Alma Mater for making possible this opportunity for study and intellectual stimulation to her daughters.

2. To President Quillian and all the officials of the College who have contributed so largely toward the success of the school.

3. To the Belk Lecturship which has enabled both the alumnae and undergraduates of the college to hear Dr. Hickman's series of lectures, "Christian Vocation."

4. To Dr. Hickman, himself, whose lectures have been outstanding in these days of intellectual stimulation.

5. To each member of the faculty whose efforts and time was given so generously in preparing and presenting their lectures, in each of which there was unmistakably a deeply religious key-note.

6. To the members of the student body for the many courtesies and kindnesses shown us during our stay in the college.

7. To the Alumnae Office in their untiring efforts in planning and executing successfully the first Alumnae School to be held in a Georgia College.

BACK TO COLLEGE

From Willie (Snow) Ethridge's column, "Gossip," in the Macon Telegraph comes this comment on Alumnae-College Week:

Wesleyan has been trying to educate her alumnae this week, but it has been a pretty hopeless task. I think the authorities of the "Oldest and Best" got to worrying about all of us "lost in the wide, wide world" and decided if we had more education we would be more of a credit to the old school. So they arranged the first alumnae week ever to be held in Georgia, and arranged a most delightful and stimulating series of talks by members of the faculty.

The alumnae came from all over the state. One of them "nailed down a husband, several children and a yard full of chickens," in order to come according to her own statement. There were alumnae from Atlanta, Griffin, Jackson, Hawkinsville and a lot of other foreign places.

I had intended to go to every lecture, but I got so busy selecting a new tooth brush for my tour, that I didn't get to but the very last ones. I had a most delightful time on Thursday afternoon, listening to Mrs. W. N. Ainsworth tell about her and Bishop Ainsworth's visit to May Ling Soong, who is now the wife, you know, of General Chaing Kai Shek, the president of China.

* * * *

May Ling is the youngest of the three Soong girls who attended Wesleyan. She came to Macon when she was nine years old with her oldest sister, who was a Wesleyan student, for a short visit, but she was so enchanted with America she refused to return to China. Bishop Ainsworth, who was then president of Wesleyan, arranged for her to have a tutor and so she remained here for a long number of years.

Bishop and Mrs. Ainsworth spent the night in China's "White House," but Mrs. Ainsworth confessed that she didn't rest well in such distinguished surroundings for she heard the tramping of soldiers' feet all night long, guarding the president and his wife.

May Ling and General Shek live very simply, Mrs. Ainsworth said, because of the unsettled conditions in China. Their "White House" is a public hall that has been converted into a home for the president and their country home is a barn on the edge of Nanking that has been remodeled into a house.

Mrs. Ainsworth declared there was nothing in the states that could touch the magnificence of the tomb of Sun Yat Sen, with its 400 steps leading up to it. She said it was a gorgeous sight to behold.

She also told many other interesting things, as did the other speakers on the program. And after listening to that program for an hour or two, I decided it was just as well I didn't get to all the other programs, for my feeble brain couldn't have taken in any more.

ATLANTA ALUMNAE OF WESLEYAN PLAN TO VISIT COLLEGE

Women to Participate in First Annual Study Week at Macon

Wesleyan is the first college in Georgia to offer this opportunity for further study to its alumnae. Lafayette College, in Easton, Pennsylvania, first conducted a series of classes for alumni last June, and this successful experiment in adult education received wide comment in America and Europe.

DELIGHTFUL TEA MARKS CLOSING DAY OF WESLEYAN ALUMNAE FESTIVITIES

Macon Telegraph, April 10

Featuring the closing day of Alumnae week was the delightful tea with which the Wesleyan students entertained following the alumnae council meeting yesterday afternoon in the college parlors.

The council meeting to which all alumnae of the college were invited, was opened this afternoon at 2:15 o'clock with a skit, Wesleyan Days, written by Miss Martha Cooper, of Perry, and acted by nine college girls, Misses Martha Mayo, Caroline Parsons, Modena McPherson, Dorothy Manget, Martha Pate, Frances Rice, Annette White, Helen Flanders, and Malene Lee.

Mrs. R. G. Stephens, president of the Atlanta Wesleyan Club, spoke on Alumnae Club Work. Presidents of alumnae clubs in various cities reported on their work for the year.

Mrs. T. J. Stewart and Mrs. S. T. Coleman, both presidents of classes which held reunions in recent years, told How to plan a Successful Class Reunion.

Mrs. W. N. Ainsworth gave an account of her visit to the president of the Chinese republic and his wife, formerly Mai-ling Soong, a Wesleyan alumna.

The Loyalty Fund was discussed by Mrs. Otis Woodard, of Tifton.

Following the council meeting, the alumnae tea was given at 4 o'clock in the grand parlor. In the receiving line were officers of student organizations for 1929-30, Miss Mary Pauline Hill, President of the Student Alumnae council; Miss Mary Banks, president of the Y. W. C. A.; Miss Nel Mullis, president of the Student Government Association; Miss Margaret Garnett, president of the Athletic association; Miss Charlye Matthews, president of the Senior class; Miss Hazel Macon, of the junior class; Miss Vida Barnett, Sophomore; Miss Christine Quillian, freshman. Members of the student alumnae council served as hostesses at the tea.

At this time, alumnae had the opportunity of meeting informally the professors whose classes they have attended during the week, as well as the students of the college.

The parlors were beautifully decorated with quantities of colorful and fragrant spring flowers.

ALUMNAE COMMENT

From Josephine (Whitehurst) Rozar:
A.B., 1881

"Alumnae-Week was a great success! If there had been nothing but the social side,—the spending a week within the walls of the College, meeting old friends and new, coming in contact with the young student body and the splendid faculty—it would have been altogether fine; but, when you add to that the wonderful lectures of Dr. Hickman and the faculty, it becomes something beyond my poor vocabulary to express.

"So just let me say: 'I thank you and the College sincerely for my pleasant visit. It made me feel prouder than ever that I am a 'Wesleyanne'."

From Marian (Padrick) Woodard: A.B.,

"The folder explaining and scheduling 'Back-to-College' week came to me yesterday and I am so happy over it. I think it is one of the most worth-while steps that Wesleyan has taken.

"I know every lecture will be an inspiration, and in order to hear them, I shall do something that I've never done before in the eight years I have taught—ask for leave of absence! I feel that I just should not miss this opportunity, and this note is to ask you to reserve me a place at the College, please."

From Ailene (Pitts) Corry: A.B., 1896

"I can't imagine anything more thrilling than a visit back to the old college, even though on a new campus, and the opportunity of hearing the timely lectures as listed in the program. Will you have room for me? I'd love so much to be there.

"This sounds like the raving of a school girl, but that is the way I feel."

From Mary (Lane) Mallet: A.B., 1917

"We hope to have a carload to attend each day from Jackson."

From Carrie (Waterman) Parsons: A.B., 1891

"The occasion meant much to me in many ways. I want to say what an admirable thing I believe the College is doing for us 'has beens', and what a delightful program was worked out and carried through. My hat is off to the College, and you have my sincere thanks for the opportunity given us to enjoy those worth-while lectures."

From Mary (Robison) Hobdy: A.B., 1893

"I do not know when I have had such an enticing invitation, just the thing I would revel in—a wonderful opportunity and privilege to 'polish up.' I congratulate Wesleyan on this forward step, and myself upon being a possible beneficiary, and bemoan my fate that this time I cannot indulge myself."

From Kate Neal: A.B., 1886

"I have received my invitation to the 'Alumnae-College Week at Wesleyan,' and think it is most generous and inspiring that you want all the old alumnae to share with you those wonderful Lectures and the intellectual stimulation and good fellowship such a program will give."

From Bessie (Houser) Nunn: A.B., 1903

"The plan and program are both wonderful, and I am so happy that it is being put on."

From Maybelle (Jones) Dewey: A.B., 1908

"I do want to express my appreciation and enthusiasm over your recently planned Alumnae Week. It is an excellent idea, and I can think of nothing which will more completely win the alumnae. I am sure there are many who are longing for just such mental refreshment—many who are more or less kept from such by different circumstances. Next time give us more time for it takes a long session to get houses, children, chickens, husbands and what not nailed down."

From Mary (Park) Polhill: A.B., 1901

"I appreciate more than I can tell you the lovely invitation to be Wesleyan's guest in April and attend the series of lectures of which you spoke. I can hardly think of anything that would be more delightful nor more profitable."

From Florrie (Allen) Chappell: A.B., 1876

"I thank you for the invitation and hope some day to be able to return to one of the dearest spots on earth to me. I know the lectures will be an intellectual treat, besides the meeting with many dear friends."

And:

"The program for Alumnae-College Week, April 7 to 9, is wonderfully attractive—a real treat."

"This is a wonderful opportunity, going back to school at Wesleyan."

"I am sure the lectures and addresses will be a literary and spiritual treat."

"I think it is 'great' that the 'old girls' can come back to their Alma Mater and be refreshed. All praise to Dr. Quillian!"

"The idea of 'Something New' is certainly most interesting, and I shall look forward to the treat in store."

"I think the new plan of having all of 'the old girls' back for a few days is splendid and I am going to be there if I can possibly arrange to do so. The lectures sound very interesting and you have my best wishes for a most successful 'convention'."

"I'm awfully sorry that I cannot accept Wesleyan's generous invitation for I think it is a splendid idea to try to educate the old alumnae to the college, as is. Hope I can come next year."

Have You Subscribed to the Spiritual Side of the Loyalty Fund?

Do you believe that every college man and woman should donate yearly to college-education through his or her Alma Mater?

Are you grateful to the men and women of the past who had the vision and generosity to prepare a college for you while you were in-the-future? Are you so grateful that you want to contribute to the education of the girls of today and tomorrow?

At Wesleyan 50% of each student's expense is paid by the college through gifts for endowment. Could you have afforded your college education if your bills had been twice as much as they were? Would you like to show your appreciation by giving to the college today?

Do you include a gift-to-education in your yearly budget just as you do a gift to the church and to the Community Chest? Shouldn't you?

Would there be an educational loss if Wesleyan were wiped out? The only colleges of today which will survive for the future are those which receive gifts for growth. No college is self-supporting. How strongly do you believe in Wesleyan?

Sole Candidate for Alumnae Trustee

For the first time the committee offers this year only one candidate for Alumnae Trustee. Margie Burke is the recipient of this honor.

Three candidates were nominated as usual; one was abroad; the other withdrew in favor of Miss Burks.

Then the committee was at sea. Who would run against Margie Burks? For in addition to her own splendid womanhood and unexcelled scholarship, she had spent her entire early life in the college, first as the young daughter of Mrs. M. M. Burks, beloved teacher of English, and then as student and teacher.

So, with the benediction of those years which she and Mrs. Burks spent at Wesleyan upon them, the committee offers Margie Burks, '05, as candidate for Alumnae Trustee.

It seems the most natural thing in the world that Margie Burks should be proposed as a candidate for Alumnae trustee. No Wesleyan girl has a longer or more intimate connection with the college whose doors she entered as a mere child. From childhood to womanhood, during the many years her mother was at Wesleyan, Margie, too, was an integral part of the college life.

With the winning of the scholarship medals in both freshman and sophomore years, the Composition medal (the outstanding distinction of the junior year), and senior honors, Margie gave promise of academic achievements which have been abundantly realized. Columbia, Chicago, and Illinois Universities, Cambridge in England, Centro de Estudios Historicos, and the Universidad Central in Madrid, and the University of Grenoble have all had their part in contributing to a cosmopolitan culture that has made her a delightful woman free from all pedantry.

While books have always had a great part in Margie Burks' life, she has the happy faculty of making friends. It was her classmates who chose her as president to direct the destinies of the class during the four years of college life; her fellow students who made her editor-in-chief of the student publications—the Wesleyan and the Annual in her senior year. Out of college, her varied interests led her to identify herself with Sunday School work at Mulberry and at Centenary churches, with the Macon History Club, and with the Saturday Morning Music Club.

Professional organizations in which Margie holds membership include: National Educational Association, Tennessee State Teachers' Association, American Association of Teachers of Spanish, Modern Language Association of America, American Association of University Women, and Sigma Delta Pi, an honorary Spanish fraternity.

Margie began her life work as teacher of Latin and mathematics at Wesleyan the year following her graduation. From old Wesleyan she went to the Lanier High where she taught Latin and later Spanish. Her teaching, interrupted by several years' residence abroad, was resumed at DePauw University in Indiana, and later the University of Illinois where the highest degree in the academic world, that of doctor of philosophy, was conferred upon her.

Last spring Benjamin H. Sanborn & Co. brought out Vital Aza's Ciencias Exactas edited by Margie Burks and Frederico Ruiz Morcuende. Margie has two other books ready for publication.

And now Margie is back on southern soil in Memphis, Tennessee, as professor of Modern Languages at the State Teachers' College. Wesleyan hasn't a daughter who has more fully realized the ideals of her Alma Mater, nor one who has carried Wesleyan's degree further in the delightful realms of culture, learning and achievement. Margie Burks is pre-eminently a Wesleyan girl, who, by her fulfillment of the dreams of its founders and friends, stands out a conspicuous figure worthy of the greatest honor within the power of the alumnae to bestow.

Business Opportunities for Wesleyan Graduates

I. THE GEORGIA COLLEGE PLACEMENT OFFICE

Through the Georgia College Placement Office, established by Mr. Cator Woolford of Atlanta in 1924, Wesleyan graduates today are finding positions in business, journalism, advertising, etc.

Mr. Woolford, one of Atlanta's outstanding business leaders, concerned over the fact that Georgia was educating her boys and girls and then forcing them out of the state to find employment, organized the Placement Office, and personally financed it for two years. The unique organization stands alone in that it seeks to place graduates of all the colleges of the state and that its board is composed of an equal number of representatives from the colleges and from business. The office is maintained by Georgia institutions and business men and its service is rendered without charge to employer and employee.

This year 25 Wesleyan girls availed themselves of the privilege of seeking positions through the Office. Mrs. W. F. Askew, placement secretary, interviewed each of the applicants and on April 15 a catalog giving the qualifications of these as well as those of other college students, was issued to approximately 1000 business firms in the state. This will be followed up by personal visits to the firms in an effort to obtain interviews for the young men and women. No names are used in the catalog but each applicant is known by a number.

A file is kept of a brief filled in by the students. There is also a "firm file" where approved firms are cataloged. Here are listed their needs, working conditions, possible openings, opportunities for advancement, etc.

MR. CATOR WOOLFORD, who is interested in keeping the Georgia college graduate in Georgia.

In "Women and the New World," an article in the journal of the Georgia College Placement Office, Mr. Woolford says: "Georgia can hardly afford the loss which the removal of her women of distinction would incur. Yet every year Georgia colleges are graduating girls whose ability and initiative and character are distinctly above the average—girls who have been working through the various mediums offered by their colleges to fit themselves for careers, and who on graduation find no worthwhile openings in the state. It is this potential wealth of ability which the Georgia College Placement Office seeks to secure for the State of Georgia."

Mr. Woolford himself came to Wesleyan College on April 25 and spoke to the student body at the chapel hour on the purposes of the organization.

II. RETAIL MERCHANDIZING

In accordance with the practice of the American Telephone Company, Macy's of New York, and other most up-and-doing business concerns who each year employ a number of newly graduated college boys and girls to train for executive positions in their organizations, Davison-Paxon of Atlanta is planning to engage some of the graduates of Georgia colleges to begin work with them in August. To that end, Miss Lula Sims, employer director, is visiting the colleges and interviewing and selecting members of the graduating class. In the following article, she describes the field of retail merchandizing:

College graduates with careers to choose should give serious thought to the field of retail distribution. It is a comparatively new thought for women and one that should appeal to this generation that thirsts for knowledge and experience.

Merchandizing will keep one mentally alive. Everything new under the sun comes under observation—eternal change from one season to another, constant and ever varying change in fashion keeps the mind on tip-toes. An absorbing problem and one that challenge intelligence is that of being ahead of the well-informed customer. Today by the thousands of dollars spent monthly in magazine advertising, radio broadcasting, movies showing the newest and smartest in both wearing apparel and home furnishings, all customers are well-informed. To acquire this knowledge and to be able to transmit it is well worth the while of a clever college girl.

College degrees are merely tools with which to build a career. A college degree will not, in itself, make a success in merchandizing, but it should help. The graduate should be adaptable and should grasp the details of the job easily.

In merchandizing, the unusual promotional possibilities due to the versatility of jobs is very attractive. From time to time, accountants, stylists, decorators, artists, copy-writers, buyers, personnel workers, stenographers, typists, cashiers, clerks, those interested in industrial management, and even teachers are required. It is not uncommon for one to begin selling and in a few years become a department manager, charged with the responsibility of spending vast sums of money, with trips into the market, with supervision over numerous sales-clerks, rating an assistant, and most marvelous of all, producing a profit at the end of a season. Is it not an alluring picture? There is a fascination about it that cannot be found elsewhere, but—one must like it and have a feel for it, or else it is a hard grind and just work.

The plan of remuneration is a livable one to start, with room at the top for the person who carries the message to Garcia. Young people with initiative, energy, enthusiasm, and loyalty are the type desired—girls with certain definite characteristics, the most essential being a willingness to work and the ability to form the work habit, accompanied by an active intellectual curiosity. Health is a very important factor, for the need of physical strength is great.

The personal supervision and plan of promotion and salary increase is important. Every six months an interview is given the employee, her present salary discussed, her good and weak points brought out, a raise is given if deserved, or a transfer to another department is made or special training is given in the hope of helping her to find herself and of making her capable of doing a better job.

There are vacations with salary, with a five-day week during the hot summer months. A six-day week during the busy season in winter is required, but during the foot-ball season, permission is given to see at least two games.

A large modern store has a hospital well equipped to take care of the employees with a trained nurse and doctor in attendance where physical examinations and medical treatment are given without charge to the employee, recreation rooms, a library accessible at all times, and cafeterias where nourishing food may be obtained at less than actual cost. A financial and personal advantage which other types of business cannot offer is given by the liberal discounts allowed on purchases by employees.

All Wesleyan Day

March 31, while the Wesleyan girls were at home for the spring holidays, was annual "All Wesleyan Day." Alumnae Clubs everywhere held their meetings with the students as guests to bring the latest news from the college.

A suggested program from the Alumnae office included the announcement of Wesleyan's newest honor in winning the approval of the Association of American Universities, some facts from the leaflet "Are You Going to College?" sent to high school students, college news by the students at home for the holidays, announcement of "Alumnae-College Week" April 7, 8, 9, 10, and a discussion of the reading list sent out by the college to alumnae.

Many of the clubs invited the high school seniors to their meeting or to a tea, and several clubs honored the Wesleyan students with an entertainment.

Wesleyan has one brand-new club—New York City—with ten members and more joining every day!

ATLANTA CLUB ACTIVITIES

ATLANTA CLUB LUNCHEON

The Atlanta Club gave a beautiful luncheon recently at the Druid Hills Golf Club honoring Jennie Loyall, '12, Alumnae Secretary, who was the guest of Lucy (Evans) Stephens, president of the club.

The guests were seated at a long table which was attractively decorated with the college colors. The motif was carried out in sweet peas, larkspur, and pink roses, arranged in plateau effect bordered with ferns which were scattered the length of the table with lavender candles burning unshaded in silver candle sticks. The place cards bore the seal of the college.

Lucy (Evans) Stephens presided and there was a delightful program of speakers, these being Alice Baxter, Anne (Trippe) Rambo, Katherine (Catchings) Ware, who introduced Jennie Loyall, who in turn spoke concerning the college, and Ida (Price) Truitt of the library committee.

At the close of the luncheon, Lucy (Evans) Stephens was presented a beautiful set of dinner plates by the Atlanta alumnae in appreciation of her work as president of the club.

ATLANTA GROUP

The youngest Atlanta alumnae group, those in classes 1920-30 had a most delightful tea and business-meeting combined recently. Margaret Richards, who was elected publicity chairman, sends in a very proper newspaper report and a charmingly informal one, which is as follows:

I feel an urge to tell you about our inspiring Group No. 1 meeting that we had yesterday afternoon at Margaret (Zattau) Roan's. This meeting was really a killing of two birds with one blow, and believe me, everybody was at the killing. Margaret was honoring our latest bride, Roline, at a beautiful tea, and getting all the Wesleyan girls in our group ready to be "organized" all over again. Roline, pardon, Mrs. Robert Emmett Boyle, Jr., had just gotten back from Cuba and according to the tradition of the college looked marvelously happy and bridey, and it will be putting it mildly to say a grand time was had by all.

Mildred Gower called us to order, or tried to, but everybody had so much to tell everybody else it was practically impossible. She explained that we were supposed to raise as much money as we did last year, and even that didn't silence us, for we felt that if we had done it once we could do it again. Anyway, Irene (Sewell) Hobby was chosen as Chairman, and everybody that had known Irene at Wesleyan felt quite satisfied, and those who hadn't, felt the same way after she had presided. Colleen (Sharp) Davis is to keep the minutes; Roberta Quillian, the money; Allie Stephens, is to keep the telephone busy and Margaret Richards would have to keep the papers notified.

Irene appointed a committee consisting of Frances (Holder) Aderholdt, Amy (Quillian) Nixon, Catherine (Catchings) Ware and Alice Warren to plan ways and means of making all this money and to arrange something "snappy" for each meeting. Needless to say, the next meeting which will be at Mrs. Hobby's new home on Amsterdam Avenue is being looked forward to with a great deal of interest and husbands have already been informed that they must keep the babies on the last Saturday afternoon in each month for that is the standing Wesleyan date.

Believe it or not, there were over thirty girls present on a rainy cold afternoon. Maybe Group No. 1 is not "up and coming" and full of the good old Wesleyan Spirit!

TEA FOR DRUID HILLS SENIORS

Maybelle (Jones) Dewey entertained at her home on Clifton Road, Atlanta, in honor of the girls who are taking the senior preparatory college course at Druid Hills High School. This tea completed the series of high school entertainments sponsored by the Atlanta Alumnae Club.

The home was attractively decorated with spring flowers and the tea table had as its center a low silver bowl filled with jonquils. A delicious salad course was served. Nannaline (King) Byrd and Emily (Melton) McNelley poured tea. Lucy (Evans) Stephens and Elizabeth (Jenkins) Rece assisted in serving.

THE ATLANTA CLUB LUNCHEON

In the group are some interesting "mothers." Ada May (McElhannon) Holder, A.B. 1889, wife of Mr. John N. Holder, former state highway chairman and now gubernatorial candidate, with her two daughters, Kathleen (Holder) Griffin, A.B. 1914, and Frances (Holder) Aderholdt, A.B. 1923; Susie (Martin) Catchings and her daughter Katherine (Catchings) Ware, A.B. 1927; Lucy (Evans) Stephens, A.B. 1898, and her daughter, Allie Stephens, A.B. 1929; Genie (Pace) Bell, L.B. '98, mother of Hunter Bell, city editor of the Atlanta Journal; Nannie (Carmichael) Beeland, A.B. 1888, mother of Charles Beeland, movie photographer who flew to Cuba, Porto Rico, and Haiti with Lindberg; Lula (McIntosh) Burns, Ex 1883, whose son is president of the Board of Education of Atlanta. And the Board of Education suggests that Martha (Weaver) Sutton was present. Her husband, Mr. Willis Sutton is Superintendent of the Atlanta schools and the successful host of the 1929 N. E. A. Convention.

TEA FOR GROUP I

Mabel (Campbell) Gibson and Merrill McMichael were joint hostesses to the 1920—30 group of Wesleyan Alumnae in Atlanta on April 26 at Mabel's home on North Decatur Road. There are more than a hundred alumnae of these classes living in Atlanta.

DECATUR CLUB

The Decatur Wesleyan Club held the first meeting of the new year recently at the home of Louise (Paddy) Wadsworth on King's Highway.

Exa (Brown) Bryant, the president, presided. Della (Manning) Green told of the program given to the Decatur High Seniors, while Nannaline (King) Byrd told of plans for entertaining the Decatur Seniors who are going to Wesleyan next year.

Plans for the luncheon given at the Druid Hills Club in honor of Miss Loyall, alumnae secretary, were discussed. Two visitors, Elizabeth (Turner) Smith and Martha (Haygood) Hall, were present and will affiliate with the club. There was a delightful social hour following the business session. The officers of the club are: president, Exa (Brown) Bryant; secretary, Ouida (Beauchamp) Winn; treasurer, Eleanor (Atkinson) Stillwell; publicity chairman, Nannaline (King) Byrd.

WESLEYAN CLUB OF BRUNSWICK

Mary E. Sapp, president of the Brunswick Wesleyan Club was hostess to the club on All Wesleyan Day. A delightful program of songs, talks, and readings was given by Helen Lowe, Daisy (Tyson) Branham, Alice (Lowrey) Davenport, Arnell Lewis, and Carolyn Lowe.

At the close of the meeting dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her mother and her sister, Virginia, who attended Wesleyan Conservatory in 1928-29.

The officers are, besides the president: secretary, Miriam (McNair) Lee; treasurer, Willie Ramsey; chairman of the program committee, Jeannette Anderson.

CAIRO CLUB

Nannie (Kitchings) Weathers, '06, president of the Cairo Club, called a meeting on All Wesleyan Day. The new officers of the Cairo Club are: president, Margaret (Jones) Roddenberry; secretary and treasurer, Pearl (Wight) Clower.

CARTERSVILLE CLUB

The Cartersville Club entertained the Wesleyan girls at home for the spring holidays with a weiner roast at the beautiful country home of Lucy Cunyus. Quill (Montfort) Jackson and Carolyn (Field) Crane assisted in planning the entertainment. Several of the alumnae toasted the Wesleyan girls of today, Annie (Hopkins) Daves, Minnie (Leake) Conyers, and Lilly (Johnson) Bradley. The Wesleyan girls, in turn, responded with some of their college songs.

A business meeting was held after the weiner roast, and Gladys (Bray) Hamrick was reelected president of the club. It was decided that the club should sponsor the presentation of one of Frances Adair's plays for the benefit of the Alumnae House.

CUTHBERT TEA

From Ft. Gaines Georgian:

Zida (Adair) Lokey presided at a Wesleyan Alumnae Tea at her home in Cuthbert Monday afternoon, entertaining Mrs. S. T. Crapps, Mrs. W. N. Little, Mrs. Frances Goffe, and Miss Irene Wimberly of the alumnae from Ft. Gaines; Miss Dixie Jones, Wesleyan student, and Miss Evelyn Jones, prospective student. The senior class of Andrew College in Cuthbert were also guests.

ELBERTON CLUB MEETS

From the Elberton Star:

The Wesleyan Club held a most interesting meeting on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Willie T. Thornton on Springdale Rd. with Mrs. Raymond Stapleton and Mrs. P. C. Maxwell assisting. The attendance was unusually good and several items of business were dispatched. Featuring the business session was the election of officers who are: Mrs. P. C. Maxwell, president; Mrs. Z. W. Copeland, secretary; and Mrs. Raymond Stapleton, treasurer.

After the business meeting a beautiful musical program was arranged, as follows: piano solo, Miss Martha Ellen Gaines; vocal solo, My Little Gypsy Sweetheart, Miss Emma Mae Jay; piano selection, A Scotch Poem, Mrs. Willie Thornton; vocal number, All Through the Night, Miss Annie Hurdon. Mrs. Raymond Stapleton read an article about Wesleyan.

At the close of the program the club enjoyed a social hour with the hostesses. Decorations featuring the Wesleyan colors, lavender and purple, were beautifully carried out.

GRIFFIN CLUB

The Griffin Alumnae Club of Wesleyan held its quarterly meeting with Olive Dent (Manget) Bramblett at her home in the Marian Apartments. The president, Gwendolyn Williams, presided. During the business meeting the officers of the club were re-elected for another year. They are: president, Gwendolyn Williams; vice-president, Olive Dent (Manget) Bramblett, Elma (Grace) Newton, secretary; Marie (Welden) Futral, treasurer.

The members of the club are planning a motor trip to the new campus in the near future. After the business session a delightful social time was enjoyed during which Olive Dent Bramblett assisted by Gwendolyn Williams, served delicious refreshments.

JACKSON CLUB

On All-Wesleyan Day, March 31, Wesleyan alumnae of Jackson met with the president, Mary (Lane) Mallett. The entire club made plans to come to Wesleyan for Alumnae-College Week to attend the series of lectures.

LAGRANGE CLUB

LaGrange Alumnae met April 22 at the home of the president, Mary (Park) Polhill. The college colors were carried out in the use of lavender and purple iris from the gardens of Lucile (Flournoy) Truitt. Wesleyan pennants and posters added to the college atmosphere.

"Wesleyan Wins the Approval of the Association of American Universities" was the subject of an article by Margaret (Atkinson) Clark. Georgia Thomas read a copy of the leaflet, "Are You Going to College?" sent to high school girls. Blanche (Mallory) Binns told most interestingly of Alumnae-College Week held April 7-10 at the college. Quinette Prentiss discussed "What Are You Reading?" a list of books compiled by the Wesleyan faculty to assist alumnae of Wesleyan in their reading.

After the program a salad course and fruit punch were served. The dining table had as a centerpiece a silver basket of lavender and purple lilies, while smaller vases held sweet peas and pansies in the same shades. Each guest was presented with a dainty corsage of lilies of the valley and pansies from the hostess' own garden.

LAKELAND CLUB

The Lakeland Club will give a tea on May 28th in honor of the Lakeland High School graduating class. Catherine Craig is president of the Lakeland Club.

MIAMI CLUB

The Wesleyan Alumnae Club of Miami entertained a number of distinguished visitors at their meeting at the Columbus Hotel. The speaker of the afternoon was Minnie (Edwards) Akerman of Tampa, who extended greetings to the Miami group from the Tampa and Orlando Wesleyan alumnae.

It was announced that Agnes (Morrison) Kennon would be hostess at tea for the club at her home in Shenandoah.

Ruth (Houser) Garrett is president of the Miami Alumnae Club.

NEW YORK CLUB

Dorothy McKay writes:

At last we had the first meeting of the N. Y. Wesleyan Alumnae Club—the last Sunday afternoon in March. Margaret Jordan Sizer '21, niece of Dr. Whitman, had us over for tea in her home at 88 Walnut Street, East Orange, New Jersey. In spite of threatening rain and a strong wind we subways up to the Penn. station, caught the Hoboken sub. to Hoboken where we took the train for East Orange. Although it took only forty-five minutes in all, we felt as though we were traintripping for the week-end. I had never seen Margaret before (although we had both shot our telephone bills sky high calling back and forth every other night for three weeks) but when we all piled off the train she knew us by the size, the general hilarity, and that "I went to Wesleyan" look which stamps all God's chosen people.

After introducing ourselves several times and getting the names on the wrong people over and over, Margaret conducted us to a large touring car which nine months of married life to a successful construction engineer had bestowed upon her. We ohed and ahed over the sights (especially the few trees and green grass lawns which we had forgotten existed) until we arrived at Margaret's apartment where her Mother and her husband were waiting to entertain us and listen to many tales of former Wesleyan antics.

The meeting was a huge success. Of course we were all so busy telling our own Wesleyan experiences that we hardly heard what the others were saying. After several of the lower voiced ones had failed dozens of times to get a word in, we passed a rule that each member should have five minutes to tell her own tale. As some of us had been there together we could not refrain from butting in and correcting or adding to the stories of our classmates.

We decided at once that the best thing for the club to do in the coming year is to try and persuade as many of these New York girls to go to Wesleyan as possible, and we began the crusade by talking fast and furiously to a young cousin of Margaret's who merely dropped in for a pleasant afternoon visit.

Our next get together is going to be the second Saturday afternoon in May when the N. Y. W. A. C. will hold a luncheon in the private dining room of Madison Avenue Schraffts.

On our alumnae list we now have: Olivia Rambo, 37 Madison Avenue, Madison Square Hotel; Lois Hardy, Panhellenic Hotel, 3 Mitchell Place; Helen (Cox) Ingraham, 411 West 114 Street; Margaret (Jordan) Sizer, 88 North Walnut Street, East Orange, N. J.; Elizabeth (Bragg) Sturdivant, 540 West 123 Street, Margaret (Ferrell) Robinson, Larchmont, N. Y.; Leila Mae (Sessions) McBride, 340 Cherry Street; Iola (Wise) Stetson, 117 East 72 Street; Marie New, 148 West 11 Street; Mary Wes (Craig) Pigueron, 12 West 85.

Ling Nyi Vee is in town—at International House, Columbia. She plans to come to our next meeting before sailing for China in June. Carroll Boyd writes from Ft. Myers that she is coming up to N. Y. in June, and Vivian Pinson also considers the big city for the summer. So you see, we are slowly gathering a large clan of Wesleyan grads.

NEWMAN CLUB

From a Newman paper:

The Wesleyan Alumnae complimented the Senior class of the high school with a tea, Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Sam Banks. When the guests entered, the house presented a beautiful scene with a decided Wesleyan air. Purple iris and wisteria carried out the lavender and purple colors. Wesleyan pennants, the Wesleyan magazines, and Wesleyan annuals were placed on tables for the guests' inspection. On an easel was a picture of Mrs. Catherine Brewer Benson, the first woman to receive a degree from a chartered college—Wesleyan. Mrs. Henry Arnall, Sr., the daughter of Mrs. Benson gave an interesting sketch of her mother's Wesleyan days. Mr. R. O. Jones, a trustee of Wesleyan, gave a vivid contrast of the Wesleyan at which he met Mrs. Jones and the greater Wesleyan of today. Miss Annie Mae Powell displayed real Wesleyan spirit in a poem of her own composition. Mrs. Banks then showed the guests her mother's valedictory, written and read in 1867.

The dining room, where the guests enjoyed delicious refreshments, was especially beautiful with its lace covered table and bowls of irises.

SAVANNAH CLUB

Savannah alumnae, not to be outdone by the feat of the Miami Club last year, entertained 200 high school seniors with a delightful tea at the Huntington Club on All Wesleyan Day. The Wesleyan colors were carried out in the ice cream and little cakes. Each girl was given a little Wesleyan sticker as a souvenir.

Marjorie (Rentz) Perkins is president of the club. She was assisted in planning for the tea by Catharine Rourk. Students at home for the holidays attended the tea and pronounced it "a huge success!"

TERRELL COUNTY CLUB

From the Dawson News:

On Monday afternoon, March 31, the Terrell County Wesleyan Club met at the home of its president, Mrs. I. C. Melton to observe All Wesleyan Day. The rooms were decorated with spring flowers in the Wesleyan colors. After the business meeting, the following program was presented:

"Wesleyan's Newest Honor", Miss Lillie Cheatham; Wesleyan's Alumnae College", Mrs. R. D. Smith; "Current Events at Wesleyan", Miss Louise Upshaw, conservatory student; "The Old-Fashioned College", Mrs. D. S. Griggs. Miss Eunice Thomson, assistant alumnae secretary, told "What the Clubs Mean to the College". She paid the Terrell County Club a compliment, saying that it is one of the best, meeting all the requirements for an A-1 club.

Miss Myrta Hill of Bronwood framed and gave Wesleyan College her mother's diploma. Miss Belle Cheatham presented her diploma to the college.

WRIGHTSVILLE CLUB

Our spring meeting was very successful. We entertained the Wesleyan girls who were at home for the holidays and also had several high school girls to meet with us. The high school girls are making plans to go to Wesleyan. Lila (Lovett) Johnson was elected president for another year. There are eight members in our club and we decided to continue with a Group B club.

Human Diseases Drawn on Canvas

Perhaps it may seem to you a queer field for an artist, but it is one which suits Kathleen Mackay, conservatory graduate of 1927, exactly,—she is medical illustrator for Mayo Clinic. The following story of her work is taken from an article in the Telegraph Magazine Section by Willie (Snow) Ethridge, '20.

Kathleen Mackay, the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Mackay, is an artist, but her subjects are anything but beautiful. Instead of painting peach blossoms against a blue sky of March, or ruffled mountain streams between green pastures of June, she uses as her models the patients who come to the famous Mayo Clinic for treatment. For Kathleen is medical illustrator for the Clinic.

She spends her days, and some of her nights, too, painting feet that are twisted with arthritis, throats that are swollen with goiters, hands that are coffee colored with Addison's disease, skins that are red and inflamed with pellagra and any other disease which the doctors wish to have down in color or black and white drawings.

Kathleen began her unusual job last February when she heard through her brother, Dr. R. P. Mackay who was a fellow at the Clinic that there was an opening there for a medical illustrator. She knew nothing of medicine and had never dreamed of being a medical artist; but she had studied art at Wesleyan Conservatory, where she was graduated in 1928, and at the Central Technical School, in Toronto, planning to be an art teacher some day.

When she learned though that the Mayo Clinic needed another medical illustrator in its studio, she changed her plans and applied for the job. When the samples of her work had been carefully inspected, her application was accepted and she became one of the small band of medical illustrators in the United States.

"I was terribly frightened before I began working for fear I could not do it," she confessed, "but luckily for me the first difficult hours on the job were over before I scarcely knew it. I was to begin work on Monday morning, but on Saturday morning I went by the studio to get the lay of the land. I reached there around 9 o'clock and they thought I had arrived for work. They assigned me a job and before I had time to get stage fright I had done my first drawing."

As there is a staff of more than 300 doctors at the Mayo Clinic and around 75,000 new patients each year—the registration for one day totalling around 950 new patients—it takes a staff of three medical illustrators to draw and paint the unusual and little known cases. Two members of the studio draw the surgical operations, one models in clay and Miss Mackay draws in black and white and paints in color all the cases that are not surgical. This includes all the skin diseases.

The drawings and paintings are used by the doctors chiefly to illustrate their articles for the medical journals and to illustrate their lectures every Wednesday evening before the staff of the Clinic. They are also used, of course, for studying the various stages of disease and the symptoms that are evident at each stage.

Many of Miss Mackay's drawings and paintings have appeared in leading medical journals as illustrations for the papers which the doctors of the Mayo Clinic have written and others are to appear as soon as the doctors for whom she has done the drawings are ready to make their findings public.

"Doctors have found drawings and paintings necessary, for photographs will not show up clearly enough," Miss Mackay explained. "Then, too, photographs will not show up the color satisfactorily and the color of the skin is very important."

When Miss Mackay is called by any of the 300 or more doctors at the clinic to make a drawing or a water color of a patient, she sketches the ill person as quickly as possible at his bedside. Then she retires to the studio to put on the finishing touches.

"It is most essential that I get the correct color and the outlines at the bedside, but when I have them on paper, I can fill the rest of the drawing or painting in later," Miss Mackay explained. "Some days I am called on to do three or four paintings, or even more than that. Other days nothing of special interests develops so I just complete those I have already briefly sketched."

This year the Mayo Clinic will send Miss Mackay to Johns Hopkins to study under Dr. Max Brodel, the eminent German specialist, who is the dean of medical illustrators in the United States. Then she will return to the Mayos to continue putting on to paper the ills and diseases of humanity.

Georgia Branches of A. A. U. W. Meet at Wesleyan

The State meeting of the Georgia branches of the American Association of University Women was held at Wesleyan on March 14th, with representatives from the branches of Athens, Atlanta, Milledgeville, Rome, Savannah, and Macon present. Dr. Mildred Mell, Dean of Women of Shorter College and president of the State organization, presided.

The morning session opened with the annual reports of the branch presidents and of the State officers. An account of the recent Virginia State meeting was given by Dr. Elizabeth Jackson of Agnes Scott College; the Sectional Conference of the South Atlantic States held in Williamsburg, Virginia was discussed by Dr. Mell.

After lunch in the college dining-room, Dr. Spright Dowell, President of Mercer University, and Dr. W. F. Quillian, president of Wesleyan, spoke on "What the College Women of Georgia Can do for Education." Dr. Quillian reviewed the history of Georgia education from Colonial days to the present, including the period from 1836-40, when Mercer, Oglethorpe, Emory, Bessie Tift, and Wesleyan were founded because of the churches' awakening to the importance of education. He contrasted the wealth of the men's college with that of the colleges for women, and suggested that the A. A. U. W. could turn the thought of the people toward women's education, and could develop leaders through providing fellowships for scholarly young women.

Dr. Dowell said that the college women of Georgia should develop a healthy, intelligent state pride, an idealism, a mobilization of people who love Georgia because it is their very own. He suggested a study of the political conditions of the state that cause a static education. He deplored the multiplicity of counties that tends to localize state undertakings.

The state officers elected for the ensuing year are: Dr. Mell of Shorter, President; 1st Vice-President, Miss Loyall of Wesleyan; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. Thomas Saltee, Milledgeville; Secretary, Mrs. J. K. Quattlebaum, Savannah; Treasurer, Mrs. Arthur K. Adams, Atlanta; Chairman of International Relations, Mrs. J. E. Campbell, Atlanta.

THE FELLOWSHIP FUND

The most important action taken was the unanimous vote to support the $1,000,000 Fund proposed by the national organization. The need for more highly trained leaders and scholars of distinction among our college women is inspiring the national organization to establish this fund. The members of the A. A. U. W. will contribute to it individually and through branch benefits steadily and easily until the entire amount is raised in the years ahead.

Our South Atlantic Section, with its 2067 members from Washington to Florida, should be responsible for $40,000, to be raised in six years or ten years, or so long as it might take.

The need is urgent, for in 1929, 159 "well-qualified women" applied for the 11 fellowships awarded by A. A. U. W. These young women should have the advantage of further study.

$1,000,000 for the intellectual equipment of our most promising college graduates will not only guarantee future leadership, but it and hostess to the state meeting.*

will make more nationally-minded the college women of the U. S. who are raising this fund. Where our money goes, our interest will go.

Ruth (Flynn) Harrell, who represented Wesleyan at the South Atlantic Sectional meeting, expressed our feeling as individuals and as "branches" when we consider the Fund.

She said, "Provincialism debates, argues with National-mindedness; some feel the need for the local kindergarten in their slums while others feel the world need beyond their borders; the fire of the worldly-wise raises the bristles of the back-yard people; some hear the voice of Main Street against the voice of Geneva." The Georgia State meeting heeded the voice of Nationalism and voted for the Fund.

The G. E. A. Meets in Macon

For the second time in recent years, the Georgia Educational Association met in Macon, bringing many Wesleyan alumnae who are teaching back to the college.

A Wesleyan booth in the college colors greeted their eyes as they entered the City Auditorium where the sessions were held, and during the two days of the meeting nearly a hundred alumnae signed in the registration book.

On Friday evening at the Tavern Tea Room they were together for a "Wesleyan Supper." College days were renewed; "Tom-mie" Maxwell herself of '24 was toastmistress of the occasion and there were toasts and songs.

Clara Nell Hargrove toasted "Our Pre-School Ma'arm Days" realistically as follows:

Our Pre-School-Marm Days

Never did I think that I should be called "school marm." Yet, when your toast-mistress asked me to toast our pre-school-marm days, I knew without a moment's hesitation that she addressed me—graduate of '29, member of the Red and White, Tri—K! School Marm!

Never did I think that I, who adored above all else to burlesque our esteemed faculty, should experience Mrs. Rosser's concern over cheating, the habitual quizzes of J. W. W., and—alas and alack—the grim-mouthed determination of Miss Garner!

Never could my best friend—had she dared—convince me that I, who pitied reminiscent alumnae, should ten short months after graduation chirp, "Do you remember?" But do you?

We were initiated as Freshmen! Or, was that our first hectic day of teaching?

Did we burn the Soph in effigy?—"No, Mary, Nero burned Rome."

There were parties . . . "The Douglas Womans' Club will meet . . ."

And that time we were restricted for five . . . We have that confused with the day we kept ten roughnecks in.

Do you remember Soccer? What a game! Or was it in reality the corporal punishment so scholarly disdained by psychologists—so essential to my freshmen boys?

Thanksgiving at Wesleyan! My superintendent grudgingly gave us Friday.

The Sophomore-Senior banquet, Y. W., the Jester, Scribes and Pharisees Debaters Council! Were we ever youthful enough for a Junior Prom? My juniors would laugh!

Stolen pleasures, unread parallel, forbidden dates, cut classes, empty note-books. But of course not, school marms!

How Miss Bartlett would laugh to see my pupils sidetrack me on aimless conversational paths.

My Muse deserts, and I revert invariably to eulogy.

Forget it! We were collegiate! We yelled at basketball games until our throats ached. We suffered through unprepared lessons, vowing by all that was good and holy to "at least look over it" next time . . . only, of course, to forget! We dashed to classes. We screamed greetings. We lived at the Pharm. We laughed. We lived.

So depraved has this noble profession made me that I overlook the Wesleyan tradition of toast in verse.

Then:

Eat, drink, and be merry—
For Monday we must teach.

Annabel Horn, who was on the program not only of the Wesleyan Supper but of the G. E. A. as well toasted "Our School Marm Days," proving that the writing of three Latin textbooks has not made her "schoolmarmish" in the least, and Re Lee (Mallory) Brown toasted "Future Wesleyannes."

Jo Beth Apperson played two selections on the harp.

Octavia (Burden) Stewart was in charge of decorations. May baskets of lavender and purple, presented by the Student Alumnae Council, held dainty mints and each alumna was given a Wesleyan pencil as a souvenir with the injunction by "Tommie" that it should be used to "make a mark in the world."

The program closed with the singing of the Alma Mater.

Georgia Federation of Clubs Meets in Historic Wesleyan Chapel

The historic old chapel of Wesleyan was the place selected for the biennial convention of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs in May. In as much as the federation's work is educational, this contact with Wesleyan, the oldest college for women, is of especial interest to the federated women. Many of the leaders in the work are among Wesleyan's 4000 alumnae and all are interested in the Georgia institution.

The chairman of the program committee was Anne (Trippe) Rambo; general chairman of committee on arrangements, Dollie (Blount) Lamar; on courtesies, Louise (Frederick) Hays; on club institute, Matilda (Morton) Snelling; on press and publicity, Julia Sparks; on road beautifying, Ailene (Pitts) Corry; on women and state health problem, Alleen (Poer) Hinton; on forestry and natural scenery, Alice Baxter; on game birds, flowers, and wild life refugees, May Boyd (Clark) Harber; on illiteracy, Mary (Harwell) Crapps; on hospitality, Edith (Stetson) Coleman.

The fourth biennial session was opened formally, Eugenia Coleman, daughter of Edith (Stetson) Coleman, and Simms Mas-see of Macon entering with the flags of the state and of the federation.

Elizabeth Anderson and Madge (Kennon) Hatcher assisted in the musical part of the federation program, with Linda (Anderson) Lane as official accompanist. Members of the college and conservatory faculty had part on the programs. Officers, delegates and guests were entertained with a buffet supper at the conservatory, and a special trip was made to Rivoli to visit the new campus where the college was hostess at a tea for the federation.

A delightful event of the session was the luncheon given at the Tip Top Tea Room by Dorothy (Blount) Lamar, honoring the retiring and incoming presidents of the organization, Mrs. A. H. Brenner of Atlanta, and Mrs. S. V. Sanford of Athens.

Anne (Trippe) Rambo of Atlanta was elected director for Georgia of the general federation for the next two years. She will attend national meetings of the federation as representative from Georgia. Mrs. Rambo was congratulated on her splendid work as program chairman of the session this year.

Before We Become Alumnae

Marian Dean Johnson, '30

It won't be long now before about sixty-five new alumnae step out into the wide-open spaces of this gay old world! And, yet, it looks as if they aren't so very anxious to leave, because they are mixed up in so many activities.

Four of these future alumnae were recently elected to the Phi Delta Phi. Caroline Owen, sister of Helen, '24, was one of these. Caroline has been business manager of the Wesleyan magazine. She was president of the Spanish club last year, class representative and house president on Student Government her first three years, and this year she made the soccer squad. Caroline was a member of the debating team that defeated Mercer in the fall. Yes, she's as fine as Helen!

Helen Roberts Ross, daughter of Helen Roberts '04, who made Phi Delta Phi, is one of the important people on the campus. This year she is assistant advertising manager, and Industry Chairman on Y. W. cabinet. Last year she was Worship chairman on Y. W. Helen was on the Freshman-Sophomore debating team both her freshman and sophomore years. She has lived in the dormitory the last two years. She made soccer and basketball squads two years.

Winnifred Jones, of Statesboro, had the highest average of any senior. This year she is editor-in-chief of the Wesleyan magazine, and is Miss Garner's assistant. Winnie was elected "Most Intellectual" in the superlative contest. She was secretary of Y. W. and her class last year.

Sarah Godley, of Savannah, the fourth Phi Delta Phi, has been interested mainly this year in the Debater's Council, of which she has been president. The organization became much stronger under her leadership. Sally has made soccer and basketball teams every year at Wesleyan. She has been class representative on Student Council for two years, and is now alumnae representative.

One of the most entertaining Artist's Series was the lecture given by Count Von Luckner, whose by-word was "Bah Jove". One of the statements that stuck was "if you shine door knobs, make them shine", in short, if you do a thing at all, do it well!

The train ride to hear Private Peat filled a page in ye old diary! The Rotarians, who sponsored the lecture, gave the Wesleyan students a free ride on a real train! Of Course, a good time was had by all, and Private Peat made a fine talk.

It was that same day that the Young Lady Journalists put out the special edition of the Macon Telegraph. Miss Garner should be complimented on training a class so well. They certainly must have slaved all day, because that night (or rather early the next morning) at the Oriole they ate ravenously at a supper given by The Telegraph. But the chop suey was good enough to eat ravenously!

And of course you heard about the college for alumnae. And Dr. Hickman! Why, he was superb! If all the Duke professors are like Dr. Hickman, Wesleyan officials had better beware lest Wesleyan girls stray away to Durham. We all are looking forward to the Alumnae Inspiration week next year. And take our advice! Don't miss it! For once Opportunity is knocking twice!

The Junior Prom has been cast aside! Yes, this year the original Juniors had a banquet, followed by an informal reception. The banquet was given in the faculty dining room where small tables, seating three couples, were attractively arranged. It seemed awfully queer not to be able to watch the "Prommers."

And Sophomore-Senior banquet! It happened at the Demsey hotel on the twenty-ninth. It was a glorious occasion, new evening clothes, a good time, n'ev'rything! despite the note of sadness that always pervades that gala affair.

Helen Clark, sister of Louise '28, was chosen "Miss Health" during the recent Health Week. For "the first time in the history of the college", Wesleyan had a Health Week! Skits of chapel, speeches, Play Day, a picnic, brought to a close by a movie, "Love Overnight"! Doesn't that sound healthy? At any rate, it was a most successful week.

Dr. Frank Mitchell, from Duke, spoke of Shakespeare's Tragic Heroes at the last English club meeting. The Tech Troubadours, the Thaliens and Emory Glee club have all added to Wesleyan's artistic temperament.

The Dramatic club, under the presidency of Martha Cooper, sister of Aurelia '22, is sponsoring a night of one-act plays on May 10. Each class has chosen their play and cast. It is hoped that in the future years, the different classes will write the plays they present.

Wesleyan has certainly become a Conference College. International Relations club, American Association of University Women, Georgia Education Association (who visited us). The seniors have enjoyed seeing those interested in giving away positions (they may turn out to be jobs!) among whom were a representative from Macy's and Mrs. Askew of the College Placement Bureau. Every day we have famous (some are infamous!) visitors. It's time some of you alumnae come back to see how the 1930 Wesleyan girl looks like. You may be agreeably surprised! Who knows?

In Memoriam

MRS. HARRIET HUDGINGS

On Sunday evening, March 9, one of Wesleyan's faithful officials closed her twentieth year of service to the college. In her room in old main building of the college, Mrs. Harriet Hudgings, dietician of the college and of the conservatory during the administrations of three presidents, died after a brief illness.

Although she was stricken Saturday evening and died the following day, Mrs. Hudgings' health had been failing for some years, and it was only through her valiant spirit and indomitable will that she kept in her place until the very last day of her life.

Mrs. Hudgings was one of the most unselfish persons Wesleyan has ever known. One of the former students of the college said of her, "We never had a friend who did so many good things with so little ostentation." She had an unusual aversion to public show of appreciation for herself yet her hand was always quietly outstretched to help anyone in need, from the most prominent member of the college household to the lowliest servant in her kitchen.

Funeral services were held from the old Grand Parlor, members of the faculties and student bodies of both college and conservatory coming to do her honor. The three presidents under whom she served, Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, Dr. C. R. Jenkins, and Dr. W. F. Quillian conducted the services, each telling in an informal way of what she had meant to Wesleyan, of her efficiency, her courage, her fine loyalty and sincerity. A group of the conservatory girls sang "Lead Kindly Light", her favorite hymn, and the colored servants in their white aprons sang a spiritual, impressive for its deep feeling. The college and conservatory students marched to the campus at the close of the service and formed line on either side of the walk from the college doors to the hearse. The burial was in Riverside cemetery.

Bishop Ainsworth, in his tribute to his friend and fellow-worker, said, "Many people have said that Mrs. Hudgings made the dining room service of Wesleyan known throughout the South. She delighted in serving the girls and in giving the entertainments which made the college home-like in its atmosphere. The best investment I made as president of Wesleyan College was in securing Mrs. Hudgings as dietician."

Local trustees of the college and members of the faculty were pall-bearers.

Mrs. Hudgings is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Simpson of Macon, Mrs. George Duvall of Chicago, and Mrs. Grace Coile of Roanoke, Va.; and by two granddaughters, Harriet and Caroline Simpson who lived for a time in the college with their grandmother.

Everything and Anything

ESSAY BY FIRST GRADUATE

A valuable addition to Wesleyan's historical treasures has been made by Minnie (Bass) Burden,—the original manuscript of Catherine E. (Brewer) Benson's essay read at the "Semi-Centennial Reunion of the Alumnae of Wesleyan College, June 1888." The essay is an account of the first graduate's own college days, her descriptions of the professors, her stories of school-girl pranks, etc. A picture of Mrs. Benson accompanies the manuscript, and both have been placed among Wesleyan's historical souvenirs.

CANDLER BUST GIVEN LIBRARY

Judge John S. Candler has placed in one of the niches of the library a bust of his father, Samuel Charles Candler. The library is a memorial to Judge Candler's parents, and a portrait of his mother hangs in the main reading room.

The bust was made from a picture of Mr. Candler taken in 1866 when he was attending the Georgia legislature in Milledgeville at the age of 60. An Italian artist was brought to this country in 1905 to carve five busts for the rotunda of the Candler Building in Atlanta. The bust given to Wesleyan was cast from this marble bust. For twenty years it was in Judge Candler's office in Atlanta.

Samuel Charles Candler was born in Columbia County, Ga., December 6, 1809, and died November 13, 1873.

GIFT OF DOGWOOD TREES TO WESLEYAN

Miss Banks Armand, bursar, has this spring given to the college 30 pink and white dogwood trees. Twenty-four of these have been placed along the driveway leading to the back campus and six in various places on the front campus. Miss Armand is planning next year to have azaleas placed along the road which leads to the college campus through the woods.

The campus has been greatly beautified this spring by many shrubs and small trees which have been set out. The Watchtower, student newspaper, carried a message of appreciation from the student body to Miss Armand for her gift.

DR. GREENE TO RETURN TO DUKE

Announcement was made April 27 by Dr. Quillian that Dr. Walter K. Greene, dean and head of the English department, will return to Duke University in September, where he has accepted a position as dean of the curriculum and professor of English, dividing his time between teaching and administrative work.

Professor G. W. Gignilliat, Jr., Davidson, N. C., will succeed Dr. Greene as head of the English department. Announcement of the new dean will be made at a later date.

Professor Gignilliat was a first honor graduate of Davidson College and a Phi Beta Kappa of that institution. He received his A. M. from Harvard and will receive his Ph. D. this summer from Columbia.

For the past four years Professor Gignilliat has been head of the English department of Presbyterian College of South Carolina and has also taught at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis and at Washington and Lee University. During the World War he served in the regular army and in the Y. M. C. A.

His scholarship and personal qualities were attested to by his teachers both at Harvard and at Columbia who speak of him as a good scholar and an exceptionally fine man. His wife is a graduate of Randolph-Macon and they have two small children.

CONSERVATORY DIETICIAN

Miss Julia Moate, who has been for five years in charge of the dining room at the Massee Apartments in Macon, will be dietician at the Conservatory to succeed Mrs. Harriet Hudgings. Miss Moate took up her duties at the Conservatory immediately after the spring holidays, April 3.

MISS NEILL HEADS A. A. U. W.

Miss Eleanor Neill, associate professor of education at Wesleyan, is the new president of the Macon Branch of the A. A. U. W., succeeding Dr. Iris L. Whitman whose term expired. Mrs. Leon P. Smith is vice-president, Miss Louise Rivers, secretary and treasurer, and Mrs. J. W. W. Daniel, chairman of the scholarship fund committee.

GIFTS OF SONGS TO WESLEYAN

Lucy (Stanley) McArthur, '08, sent two songs, lyric and music, both being of her own composition, as an Easter greeting to Wesleyan. "To Georgia" and "Georgia for Me" describe the beautiful hills and fields of Georgia. The words of the poem are attractively printed with illustrations in color.

Mrs. McArthur attended the Alumnae-College Week lectures at Wesleyan April 7-10, and writes: "I was glad to be back at Wesleyan even for a few days and glad that it seemed like home to me. I enjoyed every minute of my stay."

BURSARS ATTEND MEETING

Miss Armand, bursar of the college, and Miss Mary Lou Barton, bursar of the conservatory, attended the meeting of the Southern Educational Buyers and Business Officers Association held in Atlanta at the Piedmont Hotel in April. Miss Armand was on the program for the convention. Miss Armand and Miss Barton are among the charter members of the organization.

ADDITIONS TO WESLEYAN'S MUSEUM

Two diplomas of past years have been presented to Wesleyan by alumnae. Myrta Hill of Bronwood, framed and gave her mother's diploma. Her mother was Ann Paris of the class of 1841, and this diploma is the only one from that class in the possession of Wesleyan.

Belle Cheatham of the class of 1879 presented her diploma to the college

A delightfully quaint essay, written in the dainty shaded handwriting of long ago and tied with flowing white ribbons was presented by Mary Will (Jones) Franklin, daughter of Georgia A. (Pope) Jones, whose graduation essay it is. Lida Franklin, of the class of 1916, is a granddaughter of Georgia (Pope) Jones. The essay, written by a schoolgirl still in her teens, is a serious and solemn treatise on "Memory—the voice which wakes the soul, the voice of by-gone days".

JESSIE MUNROE DICKEY FUND

Wesleyan has just received a check for $100 from Jessie (Munroe) Dickey, A. B. '87, for the Library Fund established in her honor by her husband, Bishop J. E. Dickey, before his death. Last year Mrs. Dickey made a voluntary pledge to give this amount each year of her life for the Fund. The Jessie Munroe Dickey Fund is used to buy English literature books for the Candler Memorial Library. Mrs. Dickey writes: "My two nieces from Quincy will be with you next year at Wesleyan."

PROFESSOR SMITH HONORED

Wesleyan is proud of two recent honors which came to Professor Leon P. Smith, vice-president and head of the department of physical sciences. Prof. Smith was elected to membership in the Phi Beta Kappa at Emory University, his Alma Mater, in March. Six alumni were elected at this time.

The second honor is his election as president of the Georgia Academy of Science at their meeting in February.

PROFESSOR LEON P. SMITH,
President of the Georgia Academy of Science.

IN MEMORIAM

LUCIA (GRISWOLD) HARDEMAN, 1861

Lucia (Griswold) Hardeman died March 18 after an illness of almost a year. She attended Wesleyan College for several years, but had to leave school in her senior year because of the death of her father which occurred as he was returning from Alabama where he had closed a deal with President Jefferson Davis for the lease of the Griswold Gin Manufacturing Co. plant to the Confederate Government for the manufacture of pistols.

She was first married to Captain Charles A. Conn of the 45th Georgia Regiment. Captain Conn was killed in battle in 1865. She later married Col. Isaac Hardeman of the 12th Georgia Regiment. Mrs. Hardeman is survived by four sons, one daughter, Lula Hardeman, with whom she lived, and about fifty grandchildren and great grandchildren.

ROSA (WOODSON) BURFORD, 1875

Rosa (Woodson) Burford, A.B. '75, died in Chicago in March. She was for years a resident of Macon, but had been living in Chicago ten years, and was buried there.

Two nieces, Louise (Erminger) Harris, A.B. '08, and Willie (Erminger) Mallary, A.B. '07, live in Macon, and a nephew, H. B. Erminger, Jr., in Chicago. Her husband is also living.

Class Notes

HERE AND THERE

Helen Cahill, ex '31, has a position with the Retail Credit Company in Atlanta.

Lelia Jones, ex '33, who is now at Sullins College in Bristol, Va., is the author of a short story, "A Certain Bachelor Tells Why" which had the honor of appearing in "The Pointer", the clever West Point publication. There were only two stories selected for the issue, and Lelia's was one of these.

Sympathy is extended to Helen (Mallary) Birdsey, '09, Janet (Mallary) Torrey, '08, Rosalie (Mallary) Willingham, '12, and Lucile (Mallary) Sparks in the death of their father, F. L. Mallary in February.

Loula (Kendall) Rogers, Wesleyan's oldest living alumna, was honored by being made one of the vice-presidents of the Georgia society of descendants of Revolutionary soldiers who fought in the battle of King's Mountain. Mrs. Rogers is 91 years old but is still active in the work of literary and patriotic societies.

1862

Class Secretary: Mrs. J. O. A. Clark (Ella Anderson), 76 Arlington Place, Macon, Ga.

1865

Class Secretary: Mrs. A. W. Machen (Minnie Gresham), 217 W. Monument St., Baltimore, Md.

1869

The Mary Persons High School, named in honor of the late Mary (Barry) Persons of Forsyth, will be completed this year. A letter from the school board to her sons, Robert T. and G. Ogden Persons, prominent citizens of Forsyth, said: "This is to notify you that we have named the new high school the Mary Persons High School. In doing this we feel that we are complying with the wishes of our people of Monroe County and a unanimous board. We are prompted to do this in appreciation of your lives and interest in our schools, and as your mother was a most successful teacher we want to honor her memory."

1870

Class Secretary: Alice Baxter, 826 Peachtree St., N. E., Atlanta, Ga.

From the Atlanta Constitution:

Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs planted and dedicated a tree to Alice Baxter, in "Author's Grove," Piedmont park, at the entrance at Piedmont Avenue and Thirteenth Street Saturday afternoon, May 10. Former Governor Clifford A. Walker was principal speaker and made the dedicatory address, while a musical program arranged by Mrs. John R. Hornady was an interesting feature of the dedication service.

Alice Baxter, as chairman of forestry in the State Federation of Women's Clubs, also chairman of forestry in the fifth district, Federation of Women's Clubs, and forestry chairman in the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, has the distinction of being the only woman ever appointed by the state forestry committee, receiving her appointment by ex-Governor Clifford A. Walker during his administration as governor of the state of Georgia.

Class Secretary: Mrs. Thomas Peters (Kate Ross), 504 Washington Ave., Macon, Ga.

Ruth Gray, the granddaughter of Sadie (Burge) Gray, was recently married to Dr. Paul Glibe of Ann Arbor, Mich. at the old Burge plantation near Covington. Bishop W. A. Candler, a lifelong friend of the bride's family, performed the ceremony. Bishop Candler spent the years of his college life at the old homestead. Sadie (Burge) Gray was a roommate in college of Ida (Evans) Eve who died at her home in Augusta in March, 1928.

1874

Minnie (Bass) Burden and her husband enjoyed a motor trip to St. Petersburg, Fla., recently where they spent several weeks.

1875

Class Secretary: Mrs. L. J. Bradley (Lilly Johnson), Cartersville, Ga.

1876

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. G. Solomon (Lillian Roberts), 218 Forsyth St., Macon, Ga.

1878

Class Secretary: Mrs. Washington Dessau, (Fannie Gilmer), 301 Hines Terrace, Macon, Ga.

Helen (Cawley) Brown lives with her son.

in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. She writes that she is loyal to dear old Wesleyan—is a member of the Miami Wesleyan Club since there is not a club in Ft. Lauderdale.

Annie (Grey) Brunner and her husband celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary in Coral Gables in February. Flowers in golden tints were in baskets about the living rooms and the refreshments carried out the scheme. Their family and many friends gathered to congratulate them. Four of their grandchildren were present for the occasion, Mrs. Pallas Gunn of Lake Wales, Mrs. Backus, Mrs. T. D. Feaster, and Mrs. John B. Phelps. Their sons, Dr. E. C. Brunner and R. O. Brunner were present with their wives. Other children of the couple are Charles E. Brunner of Roscoe, Ill., Mrs. A. W. Neal of Detroit, formerly of Miami, Norman I. Brunner, Jr., of Philadelphia. There are ten grandchildren. In the name of the Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church of which Annie (Grey) Brunner is a member, Mrs. M. L. Heiss presented her with a golden pin.

Mr. Brunner graduated in March of the same year that Annie graduated at Wesleyan, from Philadelphia College of Pharmacy: He operated a chain of drug stores in Macon for many years before going to Florida.

Annie writes to her classmate, Fannie (Gilmer) Dessau: "My two Golden celebrations (the class reunion at Wesleyan in 1928 and the wedding anniversary) have caused me to take a fresh hold on life and I trust that we may have our full number for our next reunion in 1931."

Class Secretary: Mrs. Cuyler King (Henrietta Nisbet), 320 College St., Macon, Ga.

The Macon Telegraph had a story recently about four loved teachers in the Macon schools. One of these was Annie Burghard, who began her teaching career 49 years ago in the grades, and who is teaching now in Lanier High School.

1880

Class Secretary: Mrs. Alfred Truitt (Ida Price), 1027 Columbia Ave., Atlanta, Ga.

Stella (Hunt) King and her husband visited their daughter Louise (King) Horton in New Orleans during the season of Mardi Gras. Mr. King was greatly honored recently by Mulberry Street Church of which he is the oldest member. A dinner in his honor was given at the church. The invitations read: "You are cordially invited to attend a dinner in honor of our oldest and best beloved member, Mr. Campbell T. King."

A recent issue of the Macon Telegraph carried a story about several teachers in the Macon schools. One of these was Margaret McEvoy, principal of Lanier High School for Girls. "Miss Margaret", as she is affectionately known to the girls, has taught in Macon for 49 years. The senior class at Lanier gives a scholarship in the form of a year's tuition at Wesleyan, and they have named it the "Margaret McEvoy Scholarship." The orchestra at Lanier is known as the Margaret McEvoy Orchestra.

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. B. Willingham (Emma Davis), 63 Ansley Drive, Atlanta, Ga.

1882

Class Secretary: Mrs. C. E. Damour (Laura Jones), 202 High St., Macon, Ga.

1884

Class Secretary: Mattie Rogers, 75 College St., Macon, Ga.

1885

Class Secretary: Mrs. Bessie F. Artope (Bessie Goodwyn), 317 College St., Macon, Ga.

Bella (Harris) Cohen has moved from Savannah to Macon, and is living now at 720 Second Street. She was a member of the Wesleyan Alumnae Club in Savannah, and says she enjoyed it very much.

1886

Class Secretary: M. Kate Neal, 1364 Emory Rd., Atlanta, Ga.

1887

Class Secretary: Mrs. E. A. Douglass (Jennie Martin), Sanford, Fla.

1888

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. F. Stone (Ida Lowrey), Blakely, Ga.

The gift of a scholarship by Annie (Bates) Haden to the Tallulah Falls School in memory of her father, Mr. Milledge Llewellyn Bates, prominent and patriotic Georgian, was the feature of a meeting of the board of trustees of the school held in Atlanta in February. The Hadens are interested in many worthwhile enterprises; Mr. Haden is at present arranging to have a suitable monument erected at the grave of William H. Crawford, one of Georgia's most famous sons, in Oglethorpe County.

Ida (Lowrey) Stone writes:

"I would not have you think me unappreciative of the invitation to Wesleyan for Alumnae-College Week, and I would be delighted to avail myself of its benefits, but I have been ill with flu for 'weeks 'pon top of weeks' and only yesterday took my first 'airing'. I hope I am going to be well before many days but in the meantime Alumnae-College Week will have come and gone! I have a strong incentive to get well quickly for I am invited up to inspect and welcome a new grandson who arrived in Atlanta April 5, a brother to three-year-old Bets, who made her debut in New York City. Tell me I Won't nickname the two 'Yank' and 'Reb'? These are the children of my youngest son, H. R. Stone, and his wife.

"You will be interested to know that my daughter, Polly, who suffered such a painful accident last May and whose nerves were so completely unstrung, has recovered her health in the bracing climate of Connecticut, and is happily working in the Yale library at New Haven".

Class Secretary: Mrs. George Watson (Annie Lou Laney), 319 Duncan Ave., Macon, Ga.

Sympathy is extended to Julia (Jones) Higginson in the death of her son, Captain E. Gibson Higginson, formerly commander of the Macon Hussars. The pallbearers were officers and former army officers with whom Captain Higginson served for many years.

1890

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. P. Coleman (Ida Mangham), Massee Apts., Macon, Ga.

Ida (Mangham) Coleman writes from Rome, Italy: "My travels have been most interesting—Cannes, Sicily, Naples, Rome for Easter, Florence. I am sorry to miss Commencement again."

Sympathy is extended to Venita (Tate) Anderson in the death of her sister, Mrs. Sallie C. Williams. Mrs. Williams was also the sister of Colonel Sam Tate, benefactor and trustee of Wesleyan.

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. N. Ainsworth (Mary Nicholson), Massee Apts., Macon, Ga.

Sympathy is extended to Deannie (McAndrew) Airy in the death of her husband, Charles T. Airy of Savannah, prominent official of the Central of Georgia Railway, on March 14. Mr. Airey began his railroad career with the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railway in Selma, Ala. in 1882 and for many years remained with the road, now a part of the Southern railway system, advancing steadily in position. In 1918 he became vice-president of the Central of Georgia railroad. During the government administration of railroads, he served in Atlanta, New Orleans, and Washington.

Sympathy is extended to Emma (Wise) Hall and to her sister, Mary Louise (Kennedy) Hall, '96, in the death of their brother, Joseph Clisby Wise of San Francisco, Calif., in March.

Class Secretary. Mrs. Harry Ainsworth (Marian Hayes), Thomasville, Ga.

Florrie Jean (Richards) Lightfoot lives now in Raleigh, N. C. She has four children and one grandchild. Her eldest son, R. M. Lightfoot, Jr., recently enjoyed a trip to Wesleyan to the International Relations Conference, being a delegate from the state college in Raleigh where he is a junior and a Sigma Pi. Although she is now a North Carolinian, Florrie Jean is at heart a Georgian as this poem of hers shows:

Back to Georgia

Oh, the years have been many,
The years have been kind,
Though they've carried me far from my home
To other homes, love and friends,
This old world, I find,
Is a mighty good planet to roam.
But I've been back to Georgia
I've tramped the old grounds
That I loved as a child, as a girl,
Here a dear face . . . a grave there,—
My love knows no bounds —
GEORGIA IS the BEST place in the world.
So this is my song: I love
Southland and Northland
Their mountains, shores, valleys, and rills
But when Life's evening comes
And time narrows down
Let me spend it in Georgia's red hills.

1896

Class Secretary: Mrs. Phil Lanier (Anna Wooten), West Point, Ga.

Rosa Valeria (Elder) Smith has a new grandson, Dan Hammock Davis, Jr., of whom she is very proud.

1897

Class Secretary: Mrs. S. T. Coleman (Edith Stetson), 317 College St., Macon, Ga.

Corinne (Lawton) Jordan has a new grandson, Jordan Henry, born January 20 in Macon. The baby's mother was Carrie Mae Jordan of Macon. Their home is in Montgomery, Ala.

Edith (Stetson) Coleman, vice-president of the Colonial Dames of Georgia, gave a paper at the state meeting of the organization in Augusta on the early history of Georgia. She made several trips to Savannah to gather information on her subject and made a real contribution to the early history of the state.

Class Secretary: Mrs. R.G. Stephens (Lucy Evans), 615 Linwood Ave., N. E., Atlanta, Ga.

From the Emory Alumnus comes this write-up about the son of Genie (Pace) Bell:

"Of the Atlanta Journal's long line of notable city editors, none has had a rise more rapid nor success more sure than Hunter Seaborn Bell, a graduate of Emory in the class of 1921.

"Bell started to work for the Journal immediately following graduation, and within three years had been promoted to the position as assistant city editor. In 1925 he became city editor, one of the most important posts in the organization of a metropolitan daily.

"During his college days, while acting as campus correspondent for the Journal, Hunter was also the first publicity manager of the now famous Emory Glee Club. It was Hunter's knowledge of the newspaper game, coupled with Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey's ability as a director, that first brought the "South's Sweetest Singers" out of obscurity to fame.

"Despite the heavy responsibilities of his Journal job, Bell has never been too busy to address The Wheel staff once or twice each year and to advise Emory's journalistic aspirants whenever they call upon him. He took the summer off in 1926 to accompany the glee club on its first European tour.

"In line with the plans for the development of Emory's department of journalism, Bell is the first of a number of Atlanta newspaper men to be elected to the university faculty as lecturer on journalism, a title which he should have had all along."

Class Secretary: Mrs. J. E. Hays (Louise Frederick), Montezuma, Ga.

Mary Lucy (White) DeJarnette moved from Richland to Eatonton.

1901

Class Secretary: Mrs. C. E. Bothwell (Mary Lovejoy), 149 S. McDonough St., Decatur, Ga.

Dorothy (Rogers) Tilly wrote and directed a beautiful pageant presenting the children's work of the Woman's Missionary Society of the North Georgia Conference. It was called "A Rainbow of Promise" and was dedicated to Miss Althea Jones, late secretary of the Children's work.

Class Secretary: Mrs. T. J. Stewart (Octavia Burden), Vineville Ave., Macon, Ga.

Annabel Horn was the guest of Wesleyan College during the meeting of the G. E. A. in Macon in April, when she was chairman of the Latin Contest Committee. She gave a most charming toast at the Wesleyan dinner to "Our School-ma'am Days", saying, "If anybody had told me when I was beginning the study of Latin in high school that I would one day write three Latin textbooks — if anybody had dared to suggest that I would study Latin one minute beyond the required courses — I think I would have hurried to the nearest lake and drowned myself." Yet today Annabel Horn has three Latin texts off the press, Scott-Horn First Latin Lessons; Horn, Latin Manual; and Scott-Horn, Unit Tests. She has a play, too, "Trojan Festival", printed by Columbia University and a moving picture from Virgil's Aeneid, which is on circuit now in the colleges and high schools, the third film reprint of this picture. She is Southern Chairman for the American Classical League of the Virgil Bimillennium, Pageant and Play Division.

Sympathy is extended to Mary (Balkcom) Brown in the death of both her father and mother within two days of each other. Mr. Balkcom, Sr., retired hardware dealer, died of pneumonia in his 82nd year without knowing that his wife had died the day before, having suffered a stroke. One son, M. C. Balkcom, also survived. His wife is Martha (Howard) Balkcom, ex '12.

Sara Branham has been making tests in the government laboratory in Washington for the new "parrot fever" and writes to Mrs. White at Wesleyan: "You will be glad to know that my share in the 'parrot fever' studies is almost finished. We had eleven cases among our staff while we were doing it, and I am the only one of the original team who didn't catch it. Did you know I am so tough?"

Edna (Briggs) Johnson has moved from Atlanta to Michigan. Her new address is Lee Crest Apts., Detroit, Michigan.

Sympathy is extended to Ella Clare McKellar and to Professor I. E. McKellar of the Wesleyan faculty in the death of their mother, Mrs. H. H. McKellar at the home of Professor McKellar on April 24.

Class Secretary: Mrs. R. J. Taylor (Elizabeth Baker), 1985 Ponce de Leon Ave., N. E., Atlanta, Ga.

The friends of Annie (Gantt) Anderson and Dr. Anderson surprised them with a delightful supper party and house warming when they recently moved into their new home in Stanislaus Circle. The Andersons moved from Orange Street into the new home which has just been completed.

Eula M. Lang is working with the Newell-Thomas Office Equipment Company in Atlanta. Her Atlanta address is 827 Cumberland Rd. N. E.

Class Secretary: Mrs. Carroll Griffin (Kathleen Holder), 115 16th St., N. W., Atlanta, Ga.

Class Captain: Eloise (Cooper) Cannon.

Well, girls, you know it has been a long time since we had any news about '14 and I think we are much too nice to be forgotten—to say nothing of forgetting each other. But you see I have visited Wesleyan several times in the New College and you can't imagine how it does pep you up. I was so sorry not to see any of the others of you at the Alumnae-College week. I was there for two days and they treated us just royally! A few days before that I just happened to see Mary (Robeson) Boardman in Rich's and she was going if Bill, Jr., was well enough. You know how these young ones are. They will spring a case of bronchitis the very time you want to be attending class reunions. Mary lives in Marietta and has been for the past year president of the Marietta Wesleyan Alumnae. We hope to go down some time later together. She has only the one little boy, while I have a real prospect for Wesleyan. She went down with me for the two days and had the time of her life — fell head over heels in love with "the oldest and best."

In May I was at a luncheon and sat next to my old room-mate—Eloise (Cooper) Cannon. Eloise lives in Conyers and also has one daughter—a Wesleyan prospect. She takes a very active part in all the civic and social life of Conyers and is regent of the local D. A. R.

Floy (Powell) Dumas is the only other one of our class who lives in Atlanta. We belong to the same Sunday School class along with lots of other Wesleyan girls and see each other fairly often. Floy teaches at Washington Seminary as she has done for several years past.

Weren't you thrilled to see a picture of Nelia (Damour) Watt in a recent issue of the Alumnae magazine? Nelia lives in Thomasville and I had occasion not long ago to carry on a very nice correspondence with her.

Ruth (Credille) Bakes is the only one of the class that I try to write to with any degree of regularity. I saw Ruth two years ago this month while on my way to Miami. She lives in Pompano, Florida and at that time had one son—Hiram, Jr.— who is now about ten. Since then I have been notified of the arrival of Walter Credille Bakes, who is now about a year old.

Girls, you should be here to attend some of the meetings of the Atlanta Wesleyan Alumnae. We have our next meeting May 15th and I wish you could all attend. But there is one thing certain—we must all be at our reunion whenever it comes, which is not this year. I went down last year with Mother to her fortieth and I wouldn't miss it for worlds.

I also hope that more of us will find it possible to contribute to the Loyalty Fund each year. You know we must take the magazine and then we do want the Alumnae Building completed before the Centennial celebration in 1936.

Write me about yourselves and any of the others that you happen to see.

With sincerest good wishes, I am,

Kathleen (Holder) Griffin,
115 Sixteenth St., N. W.,
Atlanta, Ga.

Sympathy is extended to Evelyn (Newman) Smith in the death of her mother, Mrs. J. P. Newman on April 15. Mrs. Newman had made her home with her daughter since the death of her husband some years ago.

Sympathy is extended to Ruth (Rolston) Johnson in the death of her husband in April after an illness of only a few days. Ruth has two little sons, George Jr., age seven, and Rolston Johnson, one year old.

1915

Ruth (Radford) Launius has three children, Gene Lee, age 9, John, age 6 and Martha, 2.

1916

Class Secretary: Mrs. Jesse W. Davis (Merlyn Hiley), Vineville Court Apt., Macon, Ga.

Class Captains: Lida Franklin, Christine Broome.

Nella Braddy, a former Dublin girl, assisted Helen Keller to write the story of her life. The book, entitled "Midstream" recently appeared from the Doubleday, Doran and Co. press. Nella Braddy wrote the foreword, besides helping Miss Keller with the transcribing of her notes. Nella Braddy became associated with the Doubleday, Doran, and Company several years ago when she went to them with an unpublished story of O. Henry's which she discovered in a book shop in New York. Nella Brady has herself written a book, Etiquette for Children.

Sara Marie (Cannon) Corley has two sons, ages 13 and 14, and one daughter, age 10. They live in Augusta, at 731 Greene St.

Class Secretary: Mrs. A. L. Gilmore (Rosaline Jenkins), 1253 N. President St., Jackson, Miss.

Jane (Cater) Sargent is in Tucson, Arizona for six months to get rid of an arthritic condition which has been troubling her. Mr. Sargent went out with Jane and their young son, Lawton, or "Lawty" as he is called, in December and spent the month there, returning early in the year to New Haven. Jane and Lawty are living at the Desert sanitarium seven miles out in the desert from Tucson. Patients go to the sanitarium from all over the world, and Jane writes that it is a delightful place.

1920

Class Secretary: Mrs. Mark Ethridge (Willie Snow), 538 Washington Ave., Macon, Ga.

Ruth Chapman is teaching in the high school in Hastings, Fla.

Elsa Logan is faculty advisor for the school paper, "The Kum and Go" in the Pyengyang Foreign School in Korea. She writes that she has a good time teaching them all the journalism that she learned at Wesleyan, and is very proud of this "granddaughter of the journalism department."

Marian (Robinson) Cox has a son born in January.

Willie (Snow) Ethridge's usually-so-cheerful column in the Telegraph was full of nothing but gloom for several weeks in March. Willie underwent an operation for tonsils, which, she solemnly declares, is the worst and most serious affliction in the known world. Besides the pain which the operation brought on, she suffered complete silence for days and days—and Willie considers that untold torture!

Allie (Van Devender) Williams is living now in Macon, at 204 Pierce Ave. Her husband is with the Williams Art Store. They have a little son, Harry, Jr.

Martha (Womble) Chapman is living now at 2331 Riverside Ave., Jacksonville, Fla. She writes that she has seen several old Wesleyan girls who are living there, Leoline (Morris) Harrington, '18, and Emma Love (Fisher) Tatum, '20.

Clara Bond (Farrar) Wilson has a son, Randolph G. Wilson, Jr., born April 3, 1930.

Judith (McDaniel) Hood received her B. L. degree from Emerson College of Expression in Boston. She and her husband are living now in Cartersville.

Martha Westbrook was in the Wise Hospital in Plains for an operation just before Christmas and spent the month of January in Greensboro, N. C.

Class Secretary: Mrs. E. W. Strozier, Jr. (Mary Nell Wiley) Oxford, Ga.

Betty (Bragg) Sturdivant wrote to Dr. Quillian as soon as she heard of Wesleyan's recent honor: "My Alumnae magazine came a few days ago and the first words to greet my eager eyes were: 'Wesleyan Wins the Approval of the Association of American Universities'. I want to congratulate you and Wesleyan for accomplishing this goal. To win the approval of the highest standardizing agency in the educational world is a great achievement. I am glad that I'm a daughter of such a growing college. I am proud of my Alma Mater and I feel that there are still greater things in store for her."

Beatrice Chandler was elected to teach Junior Administration in the Chattanooga Standard Sunday School Training School held March 2-7. Beatrice was the only woman who taught in this school, and this was quite an honor. Beatrice majored in religious education at Wesleyan.

Sara Lee (Edwards) Whatley wants to know if there is to be a Baby Show this Commencement, for she has a prize-winning son whom she would like to enter! Anyhow she plans to bring him to Wesleyan for a day during Commencement.

Joeda (Holland) Pearson has a baby boy about eight months old. She lives at 911 N. W. 15th Ave., Miami, Fla.

Roberta (Jones) Gardiner and her very small daughter, Clara Alea, spent some time in Macon with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Jones. "Bert" and her husband are living now in Columbus, Ohio, where he is connected with the General Motors Company.

Induk Kim wrote to one of her Wesleyan friends recently:

"Last Tuesday I went to see Mrs. Esther Kim Herr. Of course we were too happy to see each other. For a few minutes we were speechless. Then gradually we opened our hearts and talked our experiences. The whole theme was 'Wesleyan'.

"She has the darlinest children and a well furnished home. They have just bought a new model Ford. Her husband has a grocery shop in town. They are very happy. She helps in the Korean Church in Los Angeles. There are somewhat five hundred Koreans in Los Angeles.

"We had chop suey together that evening and they took me to LaVerne, Cal., in their car. We plan to have some Korean food on Sunday at her home, and then I will preach at the Korean church that evening. When I come to the League Assembly this summer I will tell you a vivid picture of our visit together.

"After this week-end conference I am going up to Northern California, then to Oregon, Washington, British Columbia, etc. I hope to come back to Los Angeles by the first part of June.

"While I was visiting the University of Nebraska a week ago a prominent Chinese woman doctor made a speech telling that Mrs. Sun and Mrs. Chaing are both from Wesleyan College, Macon, Ga. and how they are leading the women of China. I was so proud to be a Wesleyan graduate also. Therefore, for a time, Wesleyan was the center of attraction."

Lucile Lyon is teaching in the public school in Columbus, her home.

Maude McGehee writes: "I have joined Group 1 of the Wesleyan Alumnae in Atlanta. The meetings are interesting and I have met lots of the old girls as well as discovered some of my old friends. I have been working for the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company for nearly a year. The work is interesting and the girls in the office almost as nice as the girls in the class of '28!"

1929

Class Secretary: Elizabeth Gill, Moultrie, Ga.

Sympathy is extended to Allene Brown and to her sister, Marian Brown, junior at Wesleyan, in the death of their father, editor of the Cordele Dispatch from a stroke of apoplexy in February. Allene has been teaching this year, but now has charge of her father's newspaper in Cordele.

Clifford Clark is teaching in grammar school in Atlanta. Her address is 792 St. Charles Ave.

Rebecca Davis has a position in Atlanta with the State Board of Health.

Nell Moore is teaching third grade in Buchanan, Ga., her home. She has been teaching for the past two years.

Alfreda Stanley writes: "For three weeks in January I had a place as an assistant teacher in the Faith Elementary School in Atlanta. In February I was transferred to the Mary Lin Elementary School and given a regular first grade. Mary Lin School is named for Miss Mary Lin, the principal, who is a sister of our own Miss Lin at the Conservatory.

Cecilia Wright has been writing to her classmates for news of themselves for the Alumnae magazine. She has recently been with Montie Brooks, who is working in Atlanta for Dr. Marion McH. Hull. Cecelia's address is 556 N. Church St., Decatur.
